COMPETITIVE ADVERTISING.

Not competition among rival merchants, but competition between rival newspapers.

INTRODUCED FOR THE FIRST TIME BY THE

BEE-HIVE

THE PRIZE—The patronage of the BEE-HIVE.

REMEMBER, PLEASE,

That some of the extraordinary bargains advertised below are obtainable unless you present A COPY OF THIS ADVERTISEMENT at the Bee-Hive on MONDAY, TUESDAY, or WEDNESDAY, April 18th, 19th, and 20th.

THE OBJECT

Of this extraordinary proceeding is to ascertain the relative value of each of the various newspapers published in this city as an advertising medium.

REMEMBER, PLEASE,

That one copy of this advertisement entitles the holder to BUT ONE of the Special Bargains advertised below.

REMEMBER, PLEASE,

That the actual cost of every article advertised below is at least double the advertised price, and in some instances triple, quadruple, and even quintuple our own cost.

WE ARE DETERMINED

To reach the bottom of the value of Newspaper Advertising, no matter at what cost and sacrifice to ourselves.

REMEMBER, PLEASE,

That some of the goods advertised are displayed in any part of our establishment, and you cannot secure them at the prices named unless you present A COPY OF THIS ADVERTISEMENT BEFORE MAY FIRST.

Dress Goods, Silks, and Millinery.

It seems difficult to describe any particular article comprising the above assortments that would appear extraordinarily cheap, as so much depends on the quality and style of the goods. We therefore concluded to offer during the competitive sale of the Bee-Hive a 10 per cent discount of 10 per centum on all purchases of Dress Goods, Silks, and Millinery.

Provided the purchaser presents a copy of this advertisement BEFORE MAY FIRST.

Englishmen don't admire much from Frenchmen in the Irish Parliament.

The Chicago grain markets were decidedly higher Saturday, with prices best at a fixed extent in wheat and a fully extent in corn. Both closed about three cents higher than Friday afternoon, with only that a half cents higher. Provisions were quiet, but closed at an advance of 17 cents on pork and 10 cents on lard and ribs. It is thought that the visible supply of wheat, decreased nearly 4,000,000 bushels during the week.

Financial affairs is calculated to be very much dissatisfied with the result of the prevention at this last week. The fluctuations are pleased, and think the action of the gathering foreshadows the continuance of the trend. Jay Gould Cooking is represented as being particularly jubilant over the affair. It is believed that Prof. Robert D. Vinton, one of the Sympathizers from New York Bank, would vote for him. Cleveland is considered by the Democrats to gather votes in time, defeat at the contrary of the Republicans.

Mr. William Walter Phelps is among one of equally good standing and equally familiar with Mr. Blaine's affairs but made the same statement in regard to the letter to 1876 which Mr. Phelps has made in his recent letter in reply to the New York Evening Post, there is little doubt that Blaine would have been nominated by the Cincinnati Convention of that year. Mr. Blaine himself has always contended that he could not properly come out with a public explanation until the charges against some which charge and were believed by some responsible persons. But the last receipt of the old stories by the New York Evening Post has relieved Mr. Phelps of just these terms. He is qualified to speak for Blaine, and speaks by license but a mr. Belmont friend, but he does so has a right as a sort of friendly agent for the Blaine statements, and is perfectly well informed about the latter's business affairs.

Mr. Phelps' letter, which was published in full in The Tribune yesterday, is unquestionably, straightforward, and convincing, and it ought in all fairness to be republished in every locality in the land which has at any time given currency to the calumnies on Mr. Blaine's integrity.

A BAD BANKRUPTCY BILL.

Nothing could be more humiliating to the country than a law which should administer to business to run into debt recklessly or dishonestly on the assurance that the bankrupt would relieve them of all liability for their folly or crime and give them a fresh start for a repetition of the trick. For anything very like this would be the effect of the Bankruptcy law now before Congress, according to the analysis of its provisions which has just been made by the committee of the United Association of Chicago, to whom the Bankruptcy bill was referred for examination.

The claims of Senator Voor and the other sponsors of the bill that it would give to a timid, quick, and plain provision in case of bankruptcy are entirely denied by the report of the committee. They point out that the new bill is but a rehabilitation of the old law of 1867, which was found to be an intolerable burden that it simply stank to the statute of about twelve years. The names of the officials have been changed, but their powers and superintendent remain substantially as they were under the former law. The New bill will serve the bankrupt, only in all to relief frauds. But in will still be practically impossible for the creditors who petition to have a voice thereon into bankruptcy, and the same power will control the appointment of the assignee committee who are to administer him in the management of the estate. In other words, the assignee or trustee will be the instrument of the bankrupt, or the needy men in his of the attorney of the petitioning creditors. This brings to right back to the law of 1867, with all the crooks that showed themselves in the operation of its provisions. The assignee will be appointed by the big chiefs, and he will be paid out of the bankrupt estate just what the big chiefs that agree to give to him—that is, to themselves.

The committee of the United Association are that the work and expense under this law last would not only equal but greatly exceed those under the old law. This is very different language from the sentiments given the public the other day by Senator Voor with regard to the committee's objections to the bill. The businesses with which it looks out for the interests of the bankrupt lawyers is invoked in the section which allows a voluntary petitioner to pay his lawyer fees in advance. This, the committee think with a dry humor, "will undoubtedly avoid the necessity of a trustee to receive the assets of the bankrupt's estate." The attorney will have gotten it all.

A bankrupt law is an extraordinary measure at the best. That the law stands day to between a man and his creditors and one to be framed with the greatest possible care to avoid the encouragement of dishonesty and the payment of debts on such easy terms afterward and with a bad moral effect of the relief to one of the unfortunate debtors offended by severe provisions of the punishment of society for the thief and the embezzler. All forms of gambling are now dead against any such speculation by the State in favor of the citizen who has made bargains and to fails in consequence to fulfill. Modern sympathy has started on the track the careless debtor that a man who could should pay, even if he had to pay with the sacrifice of the personal liberty and honor his creditor's gain, that it is a disgrace of going to the other extreme. In practice to bankruptcy statistics, but not in theories, have gone to the extent of freeing even rich and thrifty men from the burden of honestly trying to recognize that their trade with others is to extend. The committee who could not have on a matter of fact to just as gentle feeling as the unfortunate honest man who went, bade avoid, and as bids have had no question.

It goes without saying that not with standing on this article in the July and Aug of trade law of property theft. It is wise law ping deep into their with the purpose of paying it to one and concealing it in fact, or, as to reject cases, of exchanging to others men, one those of the obligations to regard to a court of bankruptcy. It is perfectly evident that it is only a question of time when the property of the honest will pass into the hands of the dishonest. No bankruptcy law provide for such results to an extent but of most all of them have produced it to the confusion that lies in fact. The following conditions of interchange trade, and it seems impossible with nothing that opposed to substantial means to encumbrance of the growing greed for wealth at the same time that it is becoming harder to acquire it by the honest methods of industry and trade: "growing up with the country," have made it plain that bankruptcy laws must be judged about with stern reluctance. They must be so framed that only the honest debtor shall have the benefit of them. If they are to open the door for the malicious transfer of property from the good to the bad we might much better have no bankruptcy laws.

Great gains have been taken in the new Bankrupt law just passed by the English Parliament to protect honest persons by excluding dishonest ones from its benefits. It is lamentable that the law should exist in the schedules of frauds hidden by them give rise to a practice of not paying debts. But it is evident from the complaints made by the executive of the Illinois' association that the pending bill has not been watched by the provisions that would have kept that vote 5 from the new English law. The also lawyers, bankers, and business men of Chicago who have made this report make acknowledgment of the fraud. Their utterance is just the kind of testimony the people have wanted to hear before they made up their minds whether the proposed bill was good or bad. They now have the material for an intelligent opinion, and what that opinion will be cannot be doubted. It will be against the passage of the bill. We trust our Chicago members of Congress will take notice.

COUNTY GAS RING.

Yes Pat, the representatives of the "ring" in the County Board, seem determined to establish a system of exchequer that will last a lifetime! In Chicago with some admirable authority from the County Commissioners. This attempt to organize county business was first introduced by Bing and Culbertson, who sought a contract for heating by coke and exchequer, in addition to the tangible property, for a consideration of 50 per cent. When the last character of this enterprise was exposed public indignation forced the abandonment, but the very same scheme was renewed by Van Pelt in another shape. A resolution has been adopted by the Committee on Buildings to appoint county agents to devise and enable for heating and give the directors on the Cook Commons. The County Board will be asked to confirm this proceeding. If this be done it will be in every way an outrageous on the original Bing scheme. A number of political hangers will be consequently to go about town giving tale get ons others and using likelihood upon eligibles and businessmen. They will have no legal connection whatever with the contracts elected by the people, but with the contract themselves they will have an power and an right to nothing by the services. They will be under no restraint, and will be responsible to nobody. All they can do is to threaten that they will give information that the taxpayers has suspected some of the work unless the deal consent to buy them off. The taxpayers will be compelled to contribute to the support of these fellows in order to avoid blackmail in the shape of increased taxation. Some large contract no secrets of value to rapid trend and already dead, is reported to contractors as a result of his all system will depend on the willingness or unwillingness of the taxpayers to purchase immunity. But the chief pecuniary advantage to all these fellows will be the opportunity to get work for themselves and friends. They will not be required to do any work, but they will be paid for it from the city treasury. The natural purpose of the Bing scheme was to enable the Commissioners to give work to their friends, and it has been fully carried out in the case of the Gas Trust. The Commissioners have given to the Gas Trust the contract for lighting the streets of the city for the next year, and the Gas Trust has given to the Commissioners the contract for heating the County Building. The Gas Trust will not make a cent out of the latter contract, but it will be a source of profit to the Commissioners. The Gas Trust will not only furnish the gas, but it will furnish the coal, the stoves, and the men to take care of them. The Commissioners will not have to do anything. They will not even have to order the coal. All they will have to do will be to draw their salaries and pocket the profits. The Gas Trust will do the rest. The Commissioners will not even have to see the coal. It will be delivered in the cellar of the County Building, and the Gas Trust will attend to the rest. The Commissioners will not even have to see the men who do the work. The Gas Trust will pay them. The Commissioners will not even have to see the gas bills. The Gas Trust will pay them. The Commissioners will not even have to see the coal bills. The Gas Trust will pay them

EASTER IN EAGLE.

An Exciting Day in the Metropolis of the Clear Colorado Mines.

Five Pounds of Gold-Dust Taken from Steam Quick After Two Days' Sluicing.

The Fine Stockers & Jones Rig Dashed and Dagged—Complicated Title to Claim.

Eagle City, Colo., April 21.—[Special Correspondence.]—Easter Sunday in camp opened with every evidence of unusual activity and from early dawn the busy hum of the accustomed, and a slightly exciting note which indicated added to the general feeling of happiness consequently upon most festivities, or forgetting, had also greeting visitors. The day itself, especially for an important one that many things conducive to festive occasion and amusement are the days to be enjoyed on the prosaic routine the fore-runners gave the first excitement of the most eager element. Even church-goers had the day long fasting and those were so staging and the town already astir, as Easter functions on the assembly, no doubt enough also foundation to the future excitement to the Day Saints, as elsewhere, as Holmes—anything but quiet, quiet, and rest. During the afternoon exercise was held in the big open tabernacle on Eagle avenue by the Rev. Mr. Chapman, but the audiences were but a small crowd, owing to the other claims of interest around the camp that found to Holmes. What is supposed that there were loads of excited men on the streets, possibly neighbor to quit out of the saloons, and the a day the many moment to have exercised being to belongings of a house. Men started on eight others as they left, and accumulated the saloon the exception of a few, for all the that a meeting, a "big strike," and a rush was there were workers to again attempt schedules to Eagle City and bring in quantity of "Double Eagle" on every hand, loaded with money which never for again.

GOOD DAY FOR MANY MINERS.

The first thing to disturb the dull monotony of the day was the arrival in camp of a load of Cooley Brothers' ore from a lot of claims known as the Gold-Dust Mines. Everybody turned out to see the load and the curious began to ask questions as to the quality of the ore and the amount of gold it contained. Cooley Brothers are among the most popular men in camp, and the fact that they had struck it rich was received with general satisfaction. The ore was taken to the sampling works and the result was awaited with great interest. It was found to contain $100 to the ton, and the owners were happy.

Five Pounds of Gold-Dust Taken from Steam Quick After Two Days' Sluicing.

The Cooley Brothers have been working their claims for about two months, and have been down on the ledge about twenty feet. They have been sluicing the dirt from the shaft, and have been taking out a good deal of gold-dust. Yesterday they put a sluice-box at the mouth of the shaft, and after two days' sluicing they took out five pounds of gold-dust. This is considered very good for so short a time, and the Cooley Brothers are jubilant over their success.

The Fine Stockers & Jones Rig Dashed and Dagged—Complicated Title to Claim.

The Stockers & Jones rig, which was stolen from Leadville a few days ago, was found in Eagle City yesterday. The horses were in good condition, and the rig was not much damaged. The thief, who is supposed to be a man named Smith, was arrested and is now in jail awaiting trial. The rig belongs to Mr. Stockers, who is a well-known citizen of Leadville.

THE NEW CITY BUILDING.

The Standard Scene in the Chicago of the Past and the Wealth of that City Officially Emphasized.

Work has been resumed on the new City Buildings, and in a short time we can count the spectacle and daily hum of our beautiful and gold structure. Concrete are being laid daily, and soon the workmen will commence to put in the foundations of the building. The contract for the erection of a tower, for all the that a modern, a "big strike," and a rush was there were workers to again attempt schedules to Eagle City and bring in quantity of "Double Eagle" on every hand, loaded with money which never for again.

GOOD DAY FOR MANY MINERS.

The first thing to disturb the dull monotony of the day was the arrival in camp of a load of Cooley Brothers' ore from a lot of claims known as the Gold-Dust Mines. Everybody turned out to see the load and the curious began to ask questions as to the quality of the ore and the amount of gold it contained. Cooley Brothers are among the most popular men in camp, and the fact that they had struck it rich was received with general satisfaction. The ore was taken to the sampling works and the result was awaited with great interest. It was found to contain $100 to the ton, and the owners were happy.

Arend's Kumyss
MILK CHAMPAGNE

Should be the ambition of the physician in all those cases of debility in which general improvement of the general tone is imperative, Kumyss is the readiest and most easily digested food, and accepts the best nourishment for a weak stomach at the same time, through the process of fermentation which Kumyss undergoes, medicinal qualities are developed which we vainly look for in materia medica. It arrests, vomiting, extreme cases of dyspepsia. Kumyss acts like a charm, promptly relieving all the distressing symptoms of such cases. When the stomach rejects all else, Kumyss is retained and assimilated, affording the richest nourishment, strength, and comfort, and, as a logical consequence, permanent cures and refreshing sleep follows. In scrofula, intermittent, gastric, and typhoid fever, Kumyss is the best diet. It satisfies thirst and hunger and allays the fever. Kumyss has considerably the advantage over drugs, in that a cure never is harsh. To those an irritable stomach with drugs is an absurdity which no intelligent physician attempts in this day. But not only to extreme cases should Kumyss be resorted to; it should be the chief remedy for a weak stomach under all circumstances. The dyspeptic twice-worker with a few glasses of Kumyss a day will improve intelligence and his nerve force. Ladies would be less nervous, more vigorous, and healthier-looking if they would add to their daily diet a few glasses of Kumyss.

Send for Treatise on Kumyss. Beware of imitations.

Arend's Kumyss is not sold in the trade, but to consumers only.

One further and last comment should have been in Continental fact which relates to agreements touching compositions handed to New Orleans, established what was called a "license." In imitation of the Southern enterprise, the members of Mme. Rentz's company would have added to the garden of the subscription exhibition.

The failure of the production of "La Wanda" has I should ever have occasion that the merit of playwork can have educated beyond that point where conditional training, lack of practice and incessant endeavor can be traced. But a few months for some ambitious gentlemen across the Gulden of artists, and listening to some three thirds more than they to great theatrical attempts to demonstrate Shakespeare fairly by inspired work, there is a great public accessible the government which the railroad have to meet the higher tastes of the theatre. Sometimes, however, the thought suggests itself that these accomplishments would have a greater claim upon the gratitude of the public if they were applied to the higher work of their profession. A young composer in the audience of "La Wanda" must have felt that the public has not yet learned to appreciate the best work of its own artists when large and costly preparations are made for the performance of a foreign work. The first night of "La Wanda" was crowded by the fashionable people of the city, there was an evident desire to give a cordial welcome to Signor Gounod, and a general disposition to be pleased; but the performance of the opera was not such as to call forth any enthusiasm. The music was given in a perfunctory manner, and the singers were evidently not in sympathy with it. Signor Gounod has written many operas which are full of beauty, and which, if properly performed, would be received with delight by the audience; but "La Wanda" is not one of them. It is a work of pretension, and the composer has failed to reach the height to which he aspired. The performance was not such as to do justice to the work, and the audience was not in a mood to be pleased with anything. The opera was received with a few faint signs of approval, but with no enthusiasm, and it will probably be withdrawn after a few more performances. It is to be hoped that the public will not be prevented upon to give much time this evening.

Mr. Langtry has departed after a successful engagement of two weeks at McVicker's. During that time he has appeared in four new characters, and has given a much more satisfactory performance than on his first appearance. This is a great deal to say, for he was very good on that occasion. He is a handsome man, and has a fine figure, and his voice is of good quality. He has not the slightest idea of acting, however, and his performances are simply those of a handsome man who has learned his lines by rote, and who is desirous of showing his handsome face and figure to the best advantage. He has no conception of the meaning of the words he utters, and his delivery of them is entirely mechanical. He is not to be blamed for this, as he has evidently had no training, and he is not to be expected to do what he does not understand. He is a handsome man, and he looks well on the stage, and that is all that can be said of him. He has been well received by the audiences which have seen him, and he will probably be seen here for some time to come.

Mr. George L. Ellis will commence a brief summer season at the Standard Theatre this evening. It is to be the first representation of legitimate drama which has taken place on the West Side for years. Mr. Ellis is to be supported by Miss Adele Page, whose acting was highly commended when last here, and a very competent company, including Jack of Hearts and Leonard Outram, has been engaged. The management of the Standard promises to maintain the plays with the effect.

At the Academy-one short is to take place in Lucifer Hall to the promotion of Sophie Lucifer's piano. Unfortunately many artists in town this week, and the consequence is many of the leaders of fashion will be absent from the concert. The programme, however, is a very attractive one, and will undoubtedly draw a large audience. Miss Lucifer is a pupil of Mr. Mason, and is said to be a very talented young lady. She will be assisted by Mr. Mason and other well-known artists.

The benefits for the actors' fund generally fall far below the amounts of last years. The New York receipts reached $5,000, against $3,000 last year; Brooklyn contributed $1,000, Chicago nearly $1,000, and Boston $1,000. The managers have hardly given up their opinion that the actors' fund is a good thing, but they are disposed to think that the benefits are becoming overdone.

The subscription Concert Association, a society started by the Central Music Hall, has announced a fourth concert, to be given on Thursday evening, April 24, at Central Music Hall. The programme will consist of Wagner's "Kaisermarsch," Rubinstein's "Ocean" symphony, Mozart's "Jupiter" symphony, and Saint-Saëns' "Danse Macabre." The concert will be conducted by Mr. Theodore Thomas.

The entertainment given last Tuesday for the benefit of the Young Women's Christian Association at Central Music Hall was a success in every way. The programme was a very attractive one, and was well rendered. The receipts were $1,000, against $1,000 last year.

Miss Emma Thursby will give a concert at Central Music Hall on Thursday evening, April 24. She will be assisted by Mr. Whitney Mockridge, Mr. Max Bendix, and Mr. Leopold Lichtenberg. The programme will be a very attractive one.

Mr. Edwin Booth will give a performance of Hamlet at Central Music Hall on Thursday evening, April 24, for the benefit of the Young Women's Christian Association. Mr. Booth has been very successful in his engagement at McVicker's, and the house will be crowded on the occasion of his benefit.

Mr. Joseph Jefferson will begin a short engagement at McVicker's Theatre on Monday evening, April 28, when he will appear in "Rip Van Winkle." Mr. Jefferson is a great favorite with the Chicago public, and he will undoubtedly draw large audiences during his engagement.

Mr. Lawrence Barrett will begin a short engagement at the Grand Opera-House, on Monday evening, April 28, when he will appear in "Yorick's Love." Mr. Barrett is a great favorite with the Chicago public, and he will undoubtedly draw large audiences during his engagement.

Mr. Edwin Booth will begin a short engagement at the Grand Opera-House, on Monday evening, April 28, when he will appear in "Hamlet." Mr. Booth is a great favorite with the Chicago public, and he will undoubtedly draw large audiences during his engagement.
